SYNC VISION

Vol. - 38 Issue : August - November 2014

Editorial

This quarter was brimming with academic, extra-curricular and extension activities. Hosting NAAC sponsored conference on "Measures for Quality Enhancement and Sustenance in Higher Education" was a milestone which provided an opportunity to invite the scholars to enthuse the delegates, staff and students to embark upon qualitative aspects. All programmes of the quarter provided boost to enhance learning experience through multi-various activities.

NAAC sponsored National Seminar on "Measures for Quality Enhancement and Sustenance in Higher Education"

A National Assessment and Accreditation Council (NAAC) sponsored national level seminar on "Measures for Quality Enhancement and Sustenance in Higher Education" was organized by SDM College of Business Management and SDM P.G. Centre for Management Studies and Research, Mangalore on 9 and 10 October 2014.

It was inaugurated by Professor K. Byrappa, Honourable Vice Chancellor of Mangalore University. In his address, he said that NAAC has done a commendable job in bringing about quality in higher education in India. He highlighted the role played by IQAC in colleges and universities in ensuring and sustaining quality. In his keynote address, Dr. Sandeep Shashtry, Pro Chancellor of Jain University and National coordinator of Lokniti Network, said that there is a need for industry and academic collaboration in order to bridge the gap between the world of study and the world of work. Quality in higher education is beyond materials, methods, procedures and processes. Dr. B. Yashovarma, principal of SDM College, Ujire and secretary of SDME Society, Ujire, in his presidential address, noted that there is a need for quality improvement in education, in order to deal with the outcomes of the globalization of higher education. Dr. A. Senthil Kumaran, principal counsellor and head of education excellence, CII Institute of Quality, Bangalore addressed the gathering.

The two days deliberations included different sessions chaired by experts who held interactive sessions on various topics related to improvement of quality in higher education. In the first session Dr. A. Senthil Kumaran spoke on the topic "Measuring Institutional Effectiveness with Data". He pointed out the role of stake holders in quality maintenance and contribution of institutional vision, mission and management philosophy towards it. Dr. Radhika Pai, Professor, Department of Information & Comm. Tech., Manipal University, spoke on "Pedagogical Integration of ICT for Quality Enhancement" in the second session. She highlighted the ways and means of enhancing the quality through information technology. In the third session, Prof. Clemet D'Souza, coordinator of IQAC, St. Joseph's College, Bangalore spoke on "Quality Sustenance through Internal Quality Assurance Mechanism." He insisted on independent vision and mission for IQAC of each institution and explained the significance of linking these with that of institution. He also suggested that the students should be made to experience these missions and visions through the relevant activities. Prof. Raghunandan, Retired Professor, SVS College, Bantwal talked about "Student Empowerment through Mentoring & Reverse Mentoring" in the fourth session. He opined that teacher student relationship is one of the important factors contributing to quality. To achieve this, both must realize the importance of learning from each other.

Besides this, researchers and academicians presented papers covering wide range topics based on the theme of the seminar. The main objective of the seminar was to enhance the quality of education and to ensure quality sustenance through various mechanisms.

Prof. A. M. Narahari, Registrar, St. Aloysius College (Autonomous), Mangalore, presided over the valedictory function held on 10 October. Mr. Vivek Mohan Alva, Managing Trustee, Alva's Education Foundation was the guest of honour.

In his valedictory speech, Prof. A. Narahari, Registrar, St. Aloysius College (Autonomous), stressed that in the teaching learning process, aspects such as domain knowledge, commitment and involvement play an important role in improving quality in higher education. If there is integration of teaching, tutorial, practical and self-study in higher education, it would help to improve and maintain quality. He said that education sector should align with the other sectors in the society such as economic, social and industrial sectors.

In his chief guest's address, Vivek Mohan Alva, managing trustee of Alva's Education Foundation and also alumni of the college, said that college, university and industries must work together to design and develop the courses and curriculum to help the students to be better prepared for the future. He stressed that there is lack of research orientation in Indian Education. We should take inspiration from the success of India's recent Mars Orbiter Mission and do our best to excel in research.

The delegates provided feedback about the seminar. Certificates were distributed to resource persons, paper presenters and delegates. The seminar provided a platform to deliberate on the ways and means of improving quality in higher education.

Faculty Development on How a Teacher Perception Shapes Class room Education

A FDP programme about "How a Teacher Perception Shapes Class Room Education" was organised on 30th August 2014, from 11.00 a.m to 12.30 p.m. The objective of the faculty development programme was to enlighten the faculties about IQAC and NAAC Criteria. The resource person was Mr. Clement D'Souza, Professor in Economics, St. Joseph's College, Bangalore. The resource person spoke about three aspects which are very important for NAAC i.e. Individual & department activities, best practices and documentation. He also suggested that the most important factor in student learning in class rooms is the quality of teaching and he also pointed few of the thinking processes that profoundly influence teacher behavior and student experience. Each teacher operates from a set of unexamined beliefs –about the nature of teaching and learning, about knowledge, and about the purpose of education itself. He quoted many anecdotes to justify the criteria suggested by NAAC. He highlighted the importance of research activities, certificate programmes and innovations. The programme was coordinated by IQAC. Mrs. Shashiprabha welcomed the gathering and Mrs. Madhumathi Raja introduced the guest. Ms. Sowmya Hegde compeered the programme and Mrs. Shashikala Shetty proposed the vote of thanks.

fields of careers like CA, CS, ICWA and CFA. Careers in investment banking, taxation and financial analysis. Active interaction took place and it was a successful endeavor.

GENESIS 2014

On 7th August 2014 college organised a university level management fest 'GENESIS 2014'. The theme of the fest is 'Global Kaleidoscope- An illustrious journey across the world'. It was organized exclusively for first year students. The day's ceremony scheduled at 9.00 am. It began with the blessings of almighty invoked by Ms. Priyanka and party. The CEO of genesis Ms. Sanjana Kamath welcomed the gathering. The chief guests of the function were Mr. Nigam Vasani, Vice-President, Kanara Chamber of Commerce and Industries, Mangalore and Mr. Preetham M. N., Head of Business Development, The Travel Terminal, Mangalore. Mrs. Aruna P. Kamath, principal of the college, presided over the function. The CEO of Genesis 2014 Ms. Karshini Tyagarajan presented a brief introduction about Genesis 2014 and its theme – Global Kaleidoscope. After the formal floral welcome and introduction of the distinguished guests for the event, Mr. Nigam Vasani shared his views amidst the gathering. He appreciated the institution for giving equal importance to academics as well as co-curricular activities which help in developing the students and mould them to face the corporate world. He said that to achieve success, students should instill qualities such as passion to achieve perfection, thirst to gain knowledge and self-respect. He also added that good memory power would give the students an edge in the work they do. Genesis 2014 would inspire the students to tread the path of success. He also enunciated the qualities essential for entering into the dynamic corporate world and emphasized that students must be passionate in order to achieve their aims in life. The guest of honour Mr. Preetham M. N., Head of Business Development, The Travel Terminal, also an alumnus of the college, in his address, pointed out that an ability to focus and possession of relevant skill would help the students to achieve success in their life. He also stressed the importance of innovative practices which fests like Genesis teach the students. He shared his memories which he cherished being a student of our institution and expressed his gratitude to the institution. He also emphasized the importance of extracurricular activities for all round development and also highlighted the fact that SDM College of Business Management is the right place to seek the best exposure essential for the present day Corporate World. He also highlighted the fact that mistakes help one in learning something new. He then wished all the students a successful and bright future. Mrs. Aruna P. Kamath, our beloved principal, delivered the Presidential Address.

The staff coordinators Mrs. Veena D. Kotian and Mrs. Shashikala K. G., student coordinators Karshini Tygarajan and Sanjana Kamath and the students' council president Manel Srikanth were present on the dais. Nifa Ali compeered the ceremony and Shalini Pai proposed vote of thanks. The inauguration ceremony concluded with the unveiling of Genesis 2014 overall trophy by Genesis 2014 CEO's Ms. Karshini Tygarajan & Ms. Sanjana Kamath.

With the theme for Genesis 2014 being 'Global Kaleidoscope- An illustrious journey across the world', the fest aimed at preparing the youth to unravel new ideas to iron out the ever changing phases of business world. The fest was exclusively for the first year management students with the objective of providing them an exposure to the management fest environment. The word Kaleidoscope is a combination of Greek Words KALO, EIDO, and SCOPOS which means beautiful-forms-viewer. Kaleidoscope viewing can be a meditative experience that increases creativity. The mandalas formed by kaleidoscopes have the symbolism of oneness with the universe representing it with no beginning and no end to the circular design. When one looks into a kaleidoscope, one can see something beautiful. But after it is shaken up, destroying what is there, and held it up to the light again, one can see something new and different, but equally beautiful.

Contemporary Business World is much the same as the kaleidoscope. As it continues to change, the companies are challenged. After being shaken, the companies go the extra mile and bring to the lime light something unique, just like a kaleidoscope which reveals something new and beautiful, but only if one takes the time to hold it up to the light and look inside. Similarly, GENESIS 2014's Global Kaleidoscope is a mystical and illustrious journey which aims to highlight the ever changing phases of business world, beginning with localisation and gradually leading to privatisation and now stepping into the era of Globalisation.

Genesis 2014 consisted of events like Orb Rector – Best Manager, Forex – Finance, El Marcadeo – Marketing, Spheroid Syndicator – Human Resources, Voltron – Public Relations and Simple Minds – Quiz.

Valedictory function of Genesis 2014 was held on 7th August 2014 at 4.30 pm in the college auditorium. The function began with the blessings of almighty invoked by Ms. Shabari and party. The CEO of genesis Ms. Karshini Tygarajan welcomed the gathering.

Chief Guest for the valedictory programme was Mr. N. G. Mohan, District commissioner, Bharath Scouts & Guides. In his valedictory speech he said that to create awareness among the students about corporate culture such fest should be encouraged. He highlighted the fact that success can be achieved by setting goals in one's life. He regarded it as the most important aspect in an individual's life. He emphasised that students should set goals by focusing on how they would like to see themselves years down the lane in their career life. He then expressed his gratitude to our institution by organising fests which proves to be the right platform for the students for moulding themselves.

The guest of honour Mr. T. Arun Pai, Partner- Anupama advertisers and printers (Alumnus of SDMCBM), said that in corporate world students have plenty of opportunities. In order to grasp such opportunities along with classroom study they also require practical exposure. In this context this kind of management fest are very meaningful. He shared his memories associated with SDMCBM amidst the gathering and expressed his gratitude. He also emphasised that the management fests would play a vital role in determining the future of an individual. He also stated that mere academics would just take an individual up to the place of recruitment, but it is the skills learnt from the management fest that decides their career at the time of job interview. He concluded his enlightening speech by wishing all the students a successful life. Principal, Mrs. Aruna P. Kamath delivered the presidential address.

Prizes were distributed by the chief guests. The overall trophy was bagged by St. Aloysius College, BBM Department and Manipal University, Department of Commerce, were the Runners up.

Guest Lecture on Effective Communication Skills

A Guest lecture on 'Effective Communication Skills' was conducted to the II BCA A and II BCA B students on 12 August 2014. The objective of the program was to develop effective communication skills so that the students get the right skill of communication. The resource person was Ms. Sahana H. Bloor, Technical Trainer and Compliance Auditor from Mphasis.

Ms. Sahana spoke on the two ends of communication - The sender and the receiver. She said that information is passed on through one of the three channels namely: Oral (Verbal), Non-Verbal (Actions) and Written. She also explained the steps in communication. The 7C's of communication Completeness, Consciousness, Consideration, Clarity, Concreteness, Courtesy, Correctness were explained practically.

She also explained about the other important qualities which are required for a good communication namely: Active listening which is not merely hearing. The ability to spot an error when the sender is trying to communicate and to action per the sender's request is active listening. Eye contact, which is very important in communication, if it is not maintained, the receiver tends to feel ignored or uneasy and the strength of the communication declines. Posture, maintaining a good body language, with an erect posture is more presentable and helpful. Simple language, using simple language that is easily understood by the receiver is all that is required as long as it serves the purpose and doesn't alter the meaning of the conversation. Questioning skills, the receiver needs to probe for more information and issue feedback.

Many activities were conducted to the students to enhance their communication skill. Communication is very important in conveying a message to another person. "You may have the greatest of ideas but they are of no use if you can't express them " was the message of the programme. Mr. Hariprakash, H.O.D Srinivas Institute of Technology and Management was the resource person. The objective of the programme was to provide an idea to the students to overcome stress, controlling of mind and thoughts with positive thinking.

He highlighted that stress is a part of everyday life. When people reach out for help, they are often dealing with circumstances, situations and stresses in their lives make them feeling emotionally and physically overwhelmed.

The Guest speaker conveyed to the students that the best way to be stress free and feel happy is by doing something good to others. He also emphasized that, a person should concentrate on finishing his own work rather than seeing what other person is doing.

He stressed the importance of good nutrition, weight control, exercise and develop good habits as a relaxation techniques to avoid bad habits like smoking, drugs, alcohol etc.

The speaker explained why a discussion of values is even part of stress management. One's values are what is important in life to them. People who suppress their values, and behave out of sync with their values, get stressed. That is because they feel guilty whereas if they act on their values, they feel pride and pride is a good emotion. It is very common for people not to behave according to their values and that causes stress.

Therefore, one should pay attention to one's values and act accordingly. He gave seven areas that are most important to people: finance, work, character, growth, relationships, society and religious faith. He suggested that students should first become aware of what their values are and evaluate whether they are living up to those values.

This talk helped the students to know the importance of moral values and how to get relief from stress.

The session was very interactive. Mr. Hariprakash appreciated the learning ability of the students. Mrs. Shashikala K.G lecturer in charge coordinated the programme.

Value Education

A talk on "Moral values" by Ms. Asha Ravi who is a part of art of living was conducted on 2nd September 2014. This guest lecture was arranged in order to make the students aware of the fact that how each person's moral value influences his/ her thinking.

She taught a few breathing techniques which help to steer away from negativity and also from stress. She listed a few moral values which can be practiced in life such as being kind, respecting, positive attitude, sharing, caring, honesty, discipline and helping.

Ms. Asha Ravi mentioned that these values were followed during our childhood. But as we grew up, we were exposed to negative qualities like anger, negative attitude, ego, jealousy, arrogance, fighting, smoking, drinking, breaking law, violence, robbing/ stealing, cheating, torching, harassment and abuse.

When somebody praises us and gives us just one negative comment, we tend to remember only the negative remark made about us. Because of this, our moral values decline as we give more attention to those negative remarks.

We can change this by focusing on positive thoughts as much as we can. Law of nature suggests that whatever we give attention to, that grows more within us. This is how we preserve moral values by focusing more on it.
